The Clean & Treat Professionals

Family Owned and Operated Since 1990

It's not about the volume or the bottom line on any one project, it's about the reaction from our customers the first time we used a pressure washer on their decks. It's about the commitment to save one wood restoration project at a time and provide our customers with the best end result. We don't care if we restore the most decks or wood projects, just that we do it better than any other service provider. When you put this much effort into something it becomes more about passion for giving people a better quality of life with an extension of their home.

When we're finished with your project, it will truly change the way you use your outdoor space. A space where you can enjoy your life, unwind after a hard week and to recharge your batteries in a way that will have you looking forward to your evenings and weekends more than ever. When you choose Deck Tech you will not only get years of our experience and a team of highly trained field technicians, the process will be educational, not hard pressure sales tactics. We encourage you to talk to us and ask questions, everyone in our organization has a genuine interest in getting you the answers you need to make your decision.

Education

From the beginning we've been manufacturing all of our own wood preservatives in-house and self-performing the service we still offer today. This gives us the ability to blend the best products and control the quality of work by using the best craftsman for your project.

As the surface of wood is exposed to sunlight, dirt, mildew, rain or snow, it eventually deteriorates in appearance. This phenomenon occurs very rapidly to unprotected wood. An essential first step in restoring/maintaining wood decks is proper cleaning of the surface then the application of our DT-1000. Using Deck Tech's DT-1000, a wood penetrating sealant will prolong the life of wood with its first application preventing warping, cracking, cupping, etc.

DT-1000 Applied

The following are other types of wood preservatives which do not share the properties as a true wood preservative.

Water Borne Sealants:

This quick-drying, surface level sealant does not control cracking, splitting or cupping as effectively as paraffin based oils.

Wood Sealers, Waterproofers, Linseed Oil, Vegetable Oils, Stains and Film Formers:

These frequently offer only temporary wood protection. Tests show this classification tends to be an ineffective controller of problems associated with wood decay and thought to be a source of food for fungi, mold, mildew and wood rot.

Semi-Transparent and Solid Stains:

These are film forming finishes and will not perform like a true penetrating sealant. The common problem associated with using these types of staining products is that it traps moisture and doesn't allow the wood to breathe and the original product will need to be chemically removed prior to reapplication for a proper finish.

How Our Wood Preserver Works

What is DT-1000 and why is it better than other wood protection products? DT-1000 is a proprietary fully penetrating sealant and wood preserver which resists mold and organic growth. Because of its oil base (Paraffin Oil), it penetrates deeply into the wood fibers, replenishing the natural oils lost in the wood, subsequently minimizing rot, mold and mildew growth, cracking, splitting or cupping of the wood and ultimately enriching your wood project.

Paint & Stain Removal

It's time to enjoy your outdoor space again!

We can remove unsightly paint and stain from your deck to give it a new life.

Deck Tech is the industry leader in solid and semi-transparent stain removal projects. Decades of specialized experience is the reason so many customers have depended on Deck Tech to remove unsightly paint or stain. Paints and stains adhere to wood differently and over time begin to age and peel. Deck Tech has developed and perfected its own unique process in returning your wood deck virtually back to its original state. We will treat your deck with our own proprietary fully penetrating wood preservative or reapply the highest grade solid stain. We offer a wide variety of color choices, and our ability to color match will get you the look and style you desire. It's time to enjoy your outdoor space again!
